MR. SPEAKER.--The President Dr. Rajendra Prasad in his message of condolence has said that Marshal Stalin was a world figure of outstanding greatness. Prime Minister Pandit Nehru in his message has stated that Marshal Stalin was a personality of exceptional gifts and great achievements. Dr. Radhakrishnan, the Chairman of the Council of States, has stated the other day that Stalin's great ambition was to leave his country, when he died, not in peril but in peace. That ambition has been fulfilled. We all know that Stalin is the maker of modern Russia.

Regarding late Sri N. Gopalaswami Ayyangar, brilliant as he was, he began his career as an Assistant Professor. Within a year or so he entered the Madras Civil Service and served that State and the people there in various departments for nearly 32 years. After retirement, he became the Dewan of Kashmir and he served that State and the people of Kashmir during that period between 1937 and 1942. Thus it is clear that he had to his credit a life time of distinguished service under the British Government. After India attained independence, he entered the Central Cabinet in 1947 and he is one of the framers of the Constitution of India. I very well remember, when I attended two or three meetings or conferences, whatever you call them, under his Chairmanship, that took place in Madras and Delhi, I was able to make out that as a Union Transport Minister he was largely responsible for increasing the administrative efficiency and conveniences of the country's railways by integrating and also re-grouping on the zonal system. As the Defence Minister in the reconstituted Central Cabinet after the general elections, he served the country and the people till his last breath. In short, he was known as a great gentleman and a great patriot as well as a great administrator and a far-sighted statesman.

I associate myself with the sentiments expressed by the several Hon'ble Members of this House regarding the late lamented Sri Sankaralinge Gowda. Many of us are aware of how Sri Sankaralinge Gowda was fond of statistics. He used to take extraordinary pains in calculating them and on the basis of those statistics, he used to write a series of articles and books. He has served this State and certain other parts of India in his own way in several capacities.

I regret to hear the deaths of Sri Krishnaswami Pillay and Sri Pathi Basappa who were members of the Representative Assembly in the past.

Our sincere condolences and deep sympathy go for the bereaved family members of these departed souls. May I request the House to stand in silence for a few minutes as a mark of respect to these departed souls?

The House stood up for a few minutes in silence as a mark of respect to the departed souls.
